State Port Bill Meets Defeat After Hot Fight

BRUNSWICK VOTE AGAINST MEASURE

Concession of Friends of Bill, in Striking Out the Words "At Savannah," Fail to Save Day.

LEGISLATIVE SESSION CLOSES AT MIDNIGHT

Port Bill Will Be Brought Up Again Next Year and Will Play Part in Fall Elections, Say Friends.

The port terminal bonds bill was defeated 109 to 80, by the lower house of the general assembly Wednesday afternoon, despite efforts of its supporters to effect a compromise with the Brunswick contingent by striking out the words "at Savannah" from the bill and leaving open the location of the proposed terminals. Members who have been known as favorable to Brunswick voted against the bill even as amended.

This decision was largely a protest against similar action taken earlier in the afternoon bodies to meet Wednesday night means that many house bills will not mark the close of the session.

Debate is Heated. Heated debate opened Wednesday morning on the port terminals bill, which originally provided for a constitutional amendment, to be voted on by the people, to authorize a future legislature to issue not more than $15,000,000 of bonds for the purpose of building port terminal and warehouse facilities at Savannah, similar to port terminals at Montreal, New Orleans, New York and other cities.

The burden of the contest at first apparently fell on the division of preference between Savannah and Brunswick as sites for the proposed terminals. It became apparent during the morning session that any effort to pass a bill designating Savannah was doomed to failure.

For that reason en amendment offered by Langford, of Toombs, striking out the words "at Savannah" from the bill was accepted without protest by the Savannah delegation and other supporters of the port terminals plan. Even as amended, however, friends of Brunswick's port as-pirations voted to defeat the bill. Will Enter Elections.

The fight for a state-owned terminals will be carried into the fall elections, it was asserted by supporters of the project. Wherever possible it will be made an issue in the regular primaries and a similar bill will be introduced at the next session of the Washington, August 16 .- President Harding, drafting a statement to congress and the country on the strike situation, is handling political dynanite-and knows it. However, be may explain the prolongation of the two upheavals, which have chaoticaldisturbed business recovery; and whatever he may suggest, if anything, by way of additional legisla ion, there is certain to be a reaction from one side or the other de

Furthermore, if he should suggest nmediate amendment of the Esch-Cummine law to put "teeth" into labor board decisions; or should make the highly improbable and generally unexpected request for power to seize ne railroads, he might split his own party asunder. All this made clear to him.

This is a political year. It started out with congress directing most of the administration business, coming in for much abuse in the doing, and with Harding's personal popularity at high tide. It nears its end with the executive end of the avenue in man to New York and to call in all full charge of the nation's troubles, with congressional candidates for renomination generally approved by their constituents and with the pendulum of public disfavor swinging over to the executive side of the gov-

The president was reported as con sidering seriously recommendations for definite legislation to provide legal powers to supplant the voluntary sys tem of coal control now in operation and was understood ' have before him a draft of a tentative plan of fue administration, prepared by Secre tary Hoover. Creation of a federal coal commission also would be recommended it was reported, which would be designed to make a thorough investigation of the national coal industry and suggest legislation for the permanent solution of labor problems.

To Continue Fuel Control. Pending enactment of empowering legislation the central coal distribu tion committee, officials indicated, would continue fuel control under vol untary price agreements.

Existing fair price agreements made with Mr. Hoover by producing operators were to be in effect during the strike, but a meeting of the federal coal commission with the commerce secretary and Fuel Distriubtor Spencer today to consider the effect of versy upon price arrangements, de cided that the agreements would hold until production was more largely resumed.

Mr. Spencer declared it could not yet be assumed that the strike was settled and as operators generally were showing no inclination to withdraw their co-operation there would be no change for the moment. Application of fair price agreements to the union mine fields as they resume production, he said, was under consideration. The price situation, he added, had improved considerably in the districts south of the Ohio and Potomac rivers, but in the north it was not so Southampton, Eng., August 16 .-(United News.) - News of the Candler-Byfield litigation in Atlanta came as a surprise to eye-witnesses of the stateroom scene that followed it, aboard the steamer Beregaria in July. The Berengaria docked here Wednesday.

It was on her trip over last month that the events occured, which caused Walter T. Candler, son of the millionaire soft drink king, to file suit to prevent collection on a note of $20,-500 he had given Clyde K. Byfield. And the same events form the basis of a suit for $100,000 against Can-

What Happened

The story of what happened, as learned here, is about as follows: During the small hours of the morning on the July trip to Europe, the inspector of police aboard the Berenpassengers separating two men in that he be taken to the captain im-

Byfield explained, according to the story, that he and Mrs. Byfield. Candler and others, had spent the evening at a gay champagne party. About midnight, Byfield is declared to have said, he went to the smoking room, while Candler said he would accompany Mrs. Byfield to her stateroom. Byfield, according to the story as related here, then asserted that when he went to the stateroom to retire he found Candler and his wife together.

Byfield, it is said, demanded to know what the ship company intended to do about it.

The officer then accompanied Byfield to the stateroom where Candler was found, waiting in the passageway, Mrs. Byfield was in the stateroom. The door was locked.

By this time both combatants seemed penceful enough and eventually went to the smoking room together, later announcing that the affair had been amicably settled. Byfield declared, it is said, that he had accepted a check for $25,000. Candler,

THREE months ago the Grant-Jeter Company was organized. Mr. Grant was a real estate man of almost life-long experience. Mr. Jeter had a most successful real estate record behind him. They both had very definite ideas of the kind of service that would appeal to both apartment house owners and to tenants. How well these ideas have worked out is best illustrated by the attached list of twenty-three magnificent apartment houses that are being exclusively rented by the Grant-Jeter Company just a short three months after the organization of the company.

If you are an apartment house owner and want the maximum returns upon your investment with the least possible worry, we will be glad to explain to you the method that is working so satisfactorily for others.

If you are looking for a highly desirable apartment, we will be glad to show you anything on our list.

That the "Twelve-Twenty" club.

That the "Twelve-Twenty" club, a local organization whose membership is shrouded in secrecy, will hold an important meeting in the Red Men's wigwam, Central avenue, next Monday night, to discuss candidates for city and county offices to be determined in the primary September 6, was the interpretation by a number of persons at the city hall Wednesday of a notice signed by "W. J. Laney, secretary."

The notice, which is said to have been mailed to a number of city councilmen and other officials read; "Patriots—Please be sure to attend special convention Monday night, August 21. W. J. Laney, secretary."

Confirmation of the notice and its significance to the "Twelve-Twenty" club, could not be established, several councilmen and officials whose membership in the organization is suspected, refusing to discuss the notice.

It was learned, however, that Mr. Laney's name was signed to copies of a summons which were received recently by six councilmen who were expelled from the "Twelve-Twenty" club because of their failure to vote against the ousting of John N. Malone, a candidate for re-election to the board of tax assessors. Mr. Malone is of the Catholic faith and this was the objections assigned for his disqualifications on the board of tax assessors, it was stated.

Major ground on which the commission acted, it is said, was that the evidence on which Hudson was convicted was largely circumstantial. Hudson Davis, about 45 years old, was shot and instantly killed by Corry Caldwell, this afternoon shortly after 3 o'clock in Hamburg, S. C., just across the river from Augusta.

Davis, according to witnesses, fired twice at Caldwell with a pistol, missing both times. Caldwell, going into

First Autocar's Economy Record Caused Atlanta Firm to Buy Two More

July 18, 1922

"Last August we purchased our first truck from you, and to date it has run 11,000 miles at a minimum expense. The thing that first appealed to us was the short wheelbase feature of the truck, which has allowed us to go in and deliver on the job in some extremely close quarters.

"Shortly after adding the building supply business to our Shale Brick and "Pottry" products, we purchased two additional trucks of the same model as our first Autocar, and these have been entirely satisfactory.

"Your system of service inspections has proved very helpful, and we believe has been an important factor in keeping down our repair expense.

The second of th of all your trouble is a lack of iron in the blood.

In the old days people often took metallic fron, which some physicians claim is not absorbed at all. In compounding Nuxated Iron I use the newer form of iron, which is like the fron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. Unlike the older forms of iron, it will not injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach, and it is ready for almost immediate absorption and assimilation by the blood. It is the people whose blood is rich in iron who possess great strength, force and energy. If you are not strong or well you owe it to yourself to anke the following test.

See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two 5-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times a day after meals for two weeks then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. An astonishing number of pervous, run-down people who were affiling all the while, have greatly improved their health and increased their strength, energy and endurance simply by taking this newer form of iron.

President Harding who was uiderstood to have been preparing his message to congress, held discussions concerning it during the day with Senator Lodge, the republican leader in the senate. It was considered certain, advisers said, that he would not request legislation to deal with the rail strike, although it was regarded as probable he would assure congress that such a request would be made if the situation necessitated.

10,000 Telephone Numbers Will Be Changed at That Time

The introduction of machine switching telephones in certain sections of Atlanta in the near future makes necessary many changes in telephone numbers. A new telephone directory containing these changes is being distributed this week. It has a GREEN Cover.

Change in Listing Central Office Names

The first two letters of central office names have been capitalized and printed in BOLD TYPE. This change does not affect the present method of calling. In giving numbers to your operator, use the whole central office name as at present.

FOR EXAMPLE: To call "MAin 0354," say "Main oh-three-five-four."

"Initial Zeros"

Zeros have been prefixed to all numbers that are now less than 1000. For example, Main 28 has been changed to MAin 0028, called as "Main Oh, Oh, two eight."

Opening of New Central Office

A new central office to be known as WAlnut will be opened midnight August 19th, which will later be operated on a machine switching basis.

Until the machine switching system is put into operation, WAlnut subscribers will give their calls to the operator as at present. Ample notice will be given as to the date when the new WAlnut office will be changed over to the machine switching basis of operation.

Watch for these and other changes-but

THE END OF THE STRIKE. It is apparent from recent developments that the coal strike is been resumed, after five months of suspension, in union mines in half a dozen states; and it is confidently expected that within a few days jobs in all other coal mining regions.

This is the hopeful and gratifying result of a strike settlement plan predicated upon the principle of give and take, of compromise, of subordinating personal desire to the

It is to be regretted that the plan was not agreed upon five months ago, as it might have been, thus to have spared the country from the certainty of coal shortage and the menace of a famine.

But both sides to the controversy are to be felicitated upon the saving at this late date—espeially in view gether on a working agreement state—is indefensible from any basis which foreshadows the long- standpoint. desired termination of the strike.

Let us hope that the two groups most directly involved in the equally menacing railroad strike will profit by this example and likewise cease their warfare.

The transportation strike can be settled by the same process as that which seems to have proven effectin the coal industry.

If the coal strike had been permitted to continue much longer untold suffering throughout the country would have been inevitable. The effect of protracted suspension of transportation would be equally as bad, its consequences equally as tragic, as would be the effect of indefinite suspension of coal production, for transportation of coal and the other necessities of life is equally as important as coal production.

The fact that the railroad executives and officials of the rail labor organizations are continuing to meet and parley in an effort to evolve an agreement acceptable to both belligerent groups is highly encouraging, and forms a silver lining to what otherwise would be a hopelessly dark and forbidding cloud on the industrial horizon.

It is to be hoped that the day is close at hand when these conferences will produce results in the form of the re-establishment of friendly relations between employer and employee in the transportation

It is needless to say that The Constitution has no part in the re- school authorities "to continue this publican politics of the state, but good work." even a political critic can with propriety admire the game fight of a political opponent.

Even democrats will derive son satisfaction out of this situation, for inquestionably the opposition to the epublican chairman has made many hits below the belt, and the sportsmanlike spirit of the democratic opposition cannot but help approve the manner in which he has over whelmed his adversaries and vindicated himself.

Ordinarily we view with much satisfaction republican entanglenents of every possible variety, but in this instance it is but fair to the republican chairman to say that he has conducted himself with becoming propriety in meeting and overcoming the opposition with which he has had to contend.

SUBTERFUGE LEGISLATION. The Georgia House of Representatives has passed a bill appropriating $975,000 to pay what is known as the "new class" of confederate pensioners, in addition to $226,000 to pay what the state has long owed to pensioners who were placed on the pension roll by act of the legislature in 1919.

Notwithstanding the fact that the state is unable to meet its obligations to those already on the pension roll, the house would now further increase the treasury deficit to the The Herald and Examiner. extent of almost a million dollars, knowing that there is not a dollar in sight with which to pay this newy proposed appropriation.

The bill which the house has approved was passed in the face of the fact that the state will on January face a deficit of between four and five million dollars on pensions alone, making the appropriation valueless even if enacted.

So it is a subterfuge, pure and simple-the more inexcusable when the fact is taken into consideration By the terms of an agreement be- that the house knew, when it passed tween striking miners and coal op- the measure, that it had little chance to be reached by the senate.

But the action of the house commits it to a procedure which, if successful, would not only add $975. 000 to the tax burden of the people of Georgia, but would proportionstrikers will have returned to their ately decrease the state's ability to pay its pension obligations to the honored old veterans who really need the money.

Such legislation is not only grossly unbusinesslike and preposterous from the standpoint of sound financing, but it is unfair to the confederate veterans.

The state should pay every dollar it owes to pensioners now on the roll before it proceeds further to the creation of "new classes."

CHAPTER VIII.

In the Night-time.

"He must on no account be moved," said the dark little Belgian doctor.
That pronouncement rather settled their plans for them. It was certainly a professional triumph for Nella, who, previous to the doctor's arrival, had told them the very same thing. Sue assured them that Prince Eugen was much more seriously ill than either of them suspected, and she urged that they should take absolute possession of the house, and keep possession till Prince Eugen was convalescent.

"But what about the Spencer female?" Racksole said.

"Keep her a prisoner; and hold the house against all comers. If Jules should come back, simply defy him to enter—that is all. There are two of you, so you must keep an eye on the former occupiers, if they return, and on Miss Spencer, while I nurse the patient."

By the evening of the following day everything was going smoothly. The doctor came and departed several times, and sent medicine, and seemed fairly optimistic as to the issue of the illness. An old woman had been induced to come in and cook and clean. Miss Spencer was kept out of sight on the third night it was Aribert's turn to watch. He sat silent by his turn to watch.

doctor came and departed several times, and sent medicine, and seemed fairly optimistic as to the issue of the illness. An old woman had been induced to come in and cook and clean. Miss Spencer was kept out of sight to the attic floor, pending some decides as to what to do with her. And no one outside the house had asked any questions.

The third night it was Aribert's turn to watch. He sat silent by his nephew's bedside, attending mechanically to his wants. His cars heard a peculiar resonant boom. He started—it was nothing but the city clock striking 12. But there was another sound—a mysterious shuffle at the door. He went and opened it, his heart beating furiously. Nella lay in a heap on the doormat. She was fully dressed, but had apparently lost consclousness. He carried her to a chair by the fireplace and laid her in it. "What is it, my angel?" he whispered, and then he kissed her—kissed her twice.

At last she opened her eyes, and sighed. "Where am I?" she asked vaguely, in a tremulous tone. "Did I faint?"

"What has happened? Were you ill?" he questioned anxiously. He was kneeling at her feet, holding her hand tight.

"I saw Jules by the side of my law him; he laughed at me. I had not undressed. I sprang up, frightened, but he had gone, and then I ran downstairs—to you."

"You were dreaming," he soothed her. "You must have been. I have not heard a sound. No one could have entered."

"Perhaps I was dreaming," she southed her. "You must have been. I have not heard a sound. No one could have entered."

"Perhaps I was dreaming," she admitted.

Prince Eugen had recovered; at any rate, he was convalescent, and he had been removed to London, where he was lodged in the royal suite of the Grand Babylon hotel. The lady with the red hat, the savage Miss Spencer, the unscrupulous and brilliant Jules, the dark, damp cellar, the horrible little bedroom—these things were over. Thanks to Prince Arbert and the Racksoles, he had emerged from them in safety. Only—only Jules, Rocco and Miss Spencer were still at large, and Prince Eugen had still to interview Mr. Sampson Levi. That various matters lay heavy on his mind was beyond question. He seemed

"You kissed me." she said suddenty, and he blushed red and stood up before her.

"Ah! Miss Racksole." he murmured, hurrying the words out. "It is unforgivable, but forgive me. I was overpowered by my feelings. I did not know what I was doing."

"Why did you kiss me?"

"Because, Nella! I love you. I have no right to say it."

"He Eugen dies! I shall owe a duty to Posen. I shall be its ruler."

"Well." she said calmly, with an andorable confidence. "Papa is worth forty millions. Would you not abdicate?"

"Ah!" he gave a low cry. "will you force me to say these things? I could not shirk my duty to Posen, and the reigning Prince of Posen can only marry a princess."

"But Prince Eugen will live." she said positively, "and if he lives"—

"Then I shall be free. I would remounce all my riches to make you mine, if—if"—

Then there was a crash of breaking glass. Aribert went to the window and opened it. In the starlit gloom he could see that a ladder had been raised against the back of the house. He thought he heard footsteps at the end of the garden.

"I will tell you," said Nella. "I had been reading rather late in my room and went out on the balcony of my window for a little fresh air before going to bed. I looked down into the little sunk yard which separates the wall of the hotel from Salisbury lane. I was rather astonished to see a figure creeping across the yard. I knew there was no entrance into the hotel from that yard, and besides, it is fifteen or twenty feet below the level of the street. So I watched. The figure went close up against the wall, and disappeared from my view. I leaned over the halcony as far as I dared, but I couldn't see him. I could hear him, however."

and there was a moment's silence in the celler.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., August 16.—The german, which has been all but superceeded by modern dances, was revived here tonight, when Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Paine and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grant, of Atlanta, gave a large cotilion in the ball room of the Old Anne Grant, issuing 250 invitations. It was attended by all the southern colony. The entertainment was of special interest, as it closes a long procession of similar events in this historic room, and will be the last cotillion to be danced here. It was led by Elmore D. Hotchiss, Jr., of Richmond, and Miss Dorothy Gay, Jaine and Thomas B. Paine and Mrs. Aland Mrs. Aland Mrs. Anne Grant. "The 1922 Fall Fashion Revue" is the name selected for the biggest spectacular stage production Atlanta has ever put on, and it is scheduled for two nights, September 26-27, at the auditorium.

The J. P. Allen company, through James La Viere, is the "impresario," and the Scottish Rite Home for Crippled Children is to be the beneficiary.

The performance will include three acts, in which Atlanta's smartest and prettiest young society women will be the manikins in imported costumes which will be the last word in fashion.

display afternoon gowns and hats.

The second act will be a ball room episode, the models exhibiting ball gowns and wraps, and dancing will follow the opening tableaux.

The final picture will be a beach scene, with the models in bathing and sport costumes.

which will be the last word in fashion.

Three sets are now being executed for the auditorium stage by Don Carlos DuBose, scenic artist, and no expense, no demand of taste and beauty has been spared to make these sets as effective as those of metropolitan roof garden theaters.

Mr. La Viere states that he has been instructed when he goes to New York next week to bring back for the revue the most exclusive Parisian models. Nothing else will be used.

The board will sell the boxes and the entire seating, and the fact that garden scene, with the "manikins" rising out of fountains or stepping from mammoth flowers. They will

AT WOMAN'S WINDOW

It is said of women that they have for bargains a passion that no man knows. My own wife not long ago came in triumphantly with a pair of shoes bought at a sale, which cost her nine dollars; in ordinary times she could not have bought them for less than seventeen. She was full at that time of economic righteousness; the only trouble was that she didn't want the shoes and hasn't used them yet. And that is only one kind of bargains. There are others; there are the cheap hats that go to pieces when you look at them; there are the silky garments (made of mercerized cotton) which won't wash; there are the combs of celluloid, about as safe as gunpowder. There are all the things that are cheap and nasty.

It seems to me that the wise woman should make up her mind that one never gets anything for nothing. She should approach the bargain counter in a spirit of deep suspicion. She should realize that the best in the beginning is often the worst in the end. On the other hand, there is a technique of bargain buying which clever women have taught me some thing of. As a rule, in the window of a store there is one thing, and only one thing, which is really cheap. Sometimes it gets there by a mistake; more often it lies there as a sort of prize to be discovered by an acute person who will then go round the city telling everybody how well she did at the particular store. The technique consists in knowing values; in being able to price as cleverly as the store itself the goods it is showing you. I have seen a Persian lamb coat bought for two nundred and this dollars and replaced by one at four hundred dollars when the bargain had I have seen a Persian lamb coat bought for two hundred and fifty gone. If bargain buying be your trade, then see to it that you know your (Copyright, 1922, for The Constitution.) 20

CHOOSING A SKIN BLEACH.
There have been so many inquiries regarding skin bleaches recently, that I feel there is need for enlightenment concerning these lotions.
There are many ways of bleaching the skin, just as there are for bleaching fabrics; but only the simpler ones can be depended upon not to prove injurious. If a comparison could be drawn between skin and materials, the former would be found much more sensitive to the action of a bleach than the latter. It is surprising how many women there are more sensitive to the action of a bleach than the latter. It is surprising how many women there are who would never trust the bleaching of their linens to any other than the slow method of sun and evaporation, yet they expect to bleach their akins overnight and are willing to use ingredients that they would consider risky for their table damask. The reason for fals, of course, is the fact they have never applied this same knowledge to the care of their skins.

The simplest bleaches are the juices from vegetables or acid fruit and such bleaching, if done slowly, will not injure the skin. There may be some irritation from overdoing the neid applications, and since all skin bleaching will neutralize the natural secretions at the time, oil or a cream should be worked into the pores later to make up to the skin its loss of the natural oils. There are some aking so sensitive that an oil massage will be needed even after the use of buttermilk. Bleaching with lemon fuice should always be followed by a cream or oil massage.

The only occasion for a strong blench should be when one desires to dissolve a liver spot, stain or the most offending freekles; and such blenches should be applied locally, without spreading over the whole area of the skin, and great care must be taken. Sued for Divorce

Chicago, August 16.—Mrs. Marianna Diaz has filed suit for divorce against Don Mauricio Diaz, cousin of Porfiorio Diaz, late president of Mexico.

Mrs. Diaz said her husband left two rears ago to claim his share in a big estate in Spain. When she started a search for him, he was found living within four blocks of her. He refused to disclose his movements during his absence, according to her bill for divorce.

They wear their best clothes, and here as else-where the two nations dress alike; a remarkable occurrence.

Among these dancers the other night a French woman was conspicuous by the beauty of a white frock embroidered slightly with gold in ir-regular bands. Recently it has been pointed out that though the apricot may be easily grown practically anywhere that the peach will grow, it is a fruit that is peace will grow, it is a trutt that is very little appreciated in this coun-try. Americans for some reason or other haven't made up their minds to take advantage of it. Yet there are some persons who actually prefer the apricot flavor to that of either the plum or the peach. It lends itself very well to the making of various desserts. If you can buy apricots reasonably this summer it would be a good plane to can some. They are de-licious for breakfast and will be a licious for breakfast and will be a comfort next year when it comes to thinking up new sorts of dessert. Dried apricots of a good quality are, to be sure, usually very satisfactory, but needless to say a dish of stewed dried apricots are inferor to a dish of home-canned apricots.

THEY REALLY DO IT

It isn't just a fashion magazine idea. They really do it! I saw one, the other day—a lady with an initial embroidered on her blouse!

Some time ago I saw a picture of this new fashion and the other day at a dance I saw the fashion in action for the first time. (Perhaps I am very behind hand in this. Maybe you have been wearing initials yourself.)

I wonder what we shall find to put initials on aext. We have them on all our accourrements, now on our clothes; shall we take to tattooing next?

Probably not. Not because its painful or ugly; no—a little thing like that would never prevent anything from becoming the fashion. But because initialing oirselves would hardly fit in with the reason why we like to put initials on things. That, as I take it, is to express our personality and to stamp our possession of ourselves don't think it does. I suppose it would be more in line with the fidea of initials for a wife to have her initials tattooed on her husband and vice versa.

It is rather interesting, though, when you stop to think of it,—this deaire we have to put our stamp on our possessions. If we did it just to identify them so they would not get mixed with other peoples, that would be one thing, but we don't. We don't thing, but we don't. We have many thing from one one one of the proportion of the rich, but today the humblest bride has her initials and apkins, and as we rise a bit more on the financial scale we find initials on about a color of the rich, but today the humblest bride has her initials and apkins, and as we rise a bit more on the financial scale we find initials on there of the rich, but today the humblest bride has her initials and next is partial provided to well and next in the propertion of the well-to-do have had bit of monogrammed paper was something that the well-to-do have had bit of some other way of expressing themselves, and have taken to having themselves, and

This spoils the scissors. It pays, therefore, to have a pair of scissors for different uses. You are always sure of a sharp, serviceable pair and you save your own temper.

If you want a pair of shears merelly for office use, or to cut paper, buy a cheap pair. A cast iron pair will do. Then, it is a good idea to keep your best shears for more important service, such as cutting materials. (A pair of shears seven to eight inches long is good for this purpose). To keep in your workbag for miscellaneous services, a pair of scissors about five inches long will be found serviceable.

The handiest pair for the average housewife is a pair of short, sharppointed seissors that she can use for cutting basting threads and for ripping. Embroidery and buttonhole scissors, which have rounded blades, are also a desirable type to have in your workbag.

The point is this: If Schmidt had not held out, if he had been with the fear early this spring, the chances are all that not one of the young attachers, excepting possibly Gooch, would have had a fighting chance to make good in the major leagues. If the White Sox and some of the other cleams that are now boasting of their old staffs intact the young stereers had had their old staffs intact the young stereers had had heir old staffs intact the young stereers had had been permitted to stay lack in the Southern 'for further seasoning," the odds are that he would have hed a chance. Also, if Jonnard had been permitted to stay lack in the Southern 'for further seasoning," the odds are that he would have been ruined as a catcher or else relegated to the minors for years.

In the face of the eighth round, Dandee was on the fear of the way they come in the stable of the proposition of their proposition of the lead and dropped to the stong layers in baseball. He and Jonnae's the Pelham marvel, look alike, talk alike, and there is even she would have head a chance. Some of the allegations of baseball club owners, managers and scouts are being discarded and shown up as ridiculous. I've been taking a swing around the baseball circuit looking over clubs and studying the prospects. I find three clubs—Chicago's two and the St. Louis Browns—relying upon kid pitchers who have developed this season.

But the big surprise came from the Pittsburg Pirates. You recall that Schmidt, the star catcher, held out most of the season. He is a chronic hold-out anyhow, and last fall, seeing trouble afar off, Barney Dreyfuss sent out scouts with orders to find a catcher. Now it is an old saying in baseball that catchers are the hardest thing in the game to find. Usually it takes years of experience to make a catcher a finished product, and by that time his arm is gone. Yet Dreyfuss' scouts brought on a swarm of young catchers—and just four of them are good enough right now for major league company.

AMBITION.

Gooch is a star, and this young finnell Jonnard, brother of the pitcher, would help any club in the majors. Dreyfuss had so many good catchers—not finished, excepting Gooch, but all strong throwers and good men—that he did not know what to do with them. He sent Jonnard to the Southern for further seasoning, with a string attached, and when a howl was raised he recalled him.

A New Tread - a Lower Price Reliable Goodyear Quality

Here is a new Goodyear Cord Tire-a big, sturdy, longwearing tire-that sells at a price lower than you are asked to pay for many "long discount" tires of unknown value. It has a different tread from the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Cord-a new tread with a deep, clean-cut, cog-like pattern-and it sells for substantially less.

It has in it the same high-grade long-staple cotton, the same Goodyear patented group-ply construction, the same liberally oversize dimensions.

When you buy the 41/2-inch size, for example, you get a tire whose actual measurement is nearly 5 inches. Don't confuse this Goodyear Cross-Rib Tread Cord with other popular-price cords which sell at the same price or for slightly more. In many cases, these other cords are made of inferior materials, with short-staple cotton as a foundation. Get the tire that is good enough to carry the Goodyear name, that is built to safeguard the world-wide Goodyear reputation.

The qualifying round for this tour-nament will be played on Monday, August 21, and all play will be over the 18-hole route, with the exception of one flight for beginners, which will play nine holes.

The municipal tournament will get under way at once. The qualifying round of this was shot some time ago, but due to a change of professionals at Piedmont and other disturbing factors, the start has been delayed.

The pairings of the first flight together with the telephone numbers of the contestants are published herewith, and it is up to the individuals to get together and play the first 36 holes of the tournament before next Monday. Eighteen holes must be played at Piedmont and eighteen at the Key Course. After these 36 holes have been played they will be rematched, and the final 36 will be played in the same manner as the former. All scores must be certified to by either Clem House or Charlie Gray.

When the players are ready to start they should report to one of these men and a scorer will be appointed by them to 'accompany the match and keep the official score. The score of the match was 12-10.

BASEBALI -TODAY-Atlanta vs. Chattaneoga Game Called 3 O'clock Prompt While Joe Guyon's Two Triples Put the Game

BY MIKE THOMAS.

The Atlanta baseball team, widely known as the Crackers, fought the Chattanooga Lookouts an awful battle on the skids that led to the cellar position in the Southern and won by the safe margin of 9 to 1 at Ponce de Leon yesterday afternoon, and the fans went their way wondering why the Crackers haven't been winning ball games right along.

Oscar Tuero was the outstanding star of the contest, holding the opposition to three hits on the full nine innings, and Senor Oscar looked like one of these rare jewels that the fans have been wailing for. Even with what appeared to be a safe margin, Tuero kept steaming them over and the 'Nooga clouters were helpless. The Lookouts' score came as the result of Mayer's falling down in going after Clayton's long hit that went for a triple, scoring Bedgood, who had been hit by a pitched ball. Bedgood garnered the other hit off Tuero's de livery.

The fielding feature of the game was a wonderful stop of C. Ander-0 son's hit right over second base in the sixth by Eddie Moore. From a position of vantage in the press box this ball looked to be labeled "hit" beyond the question of a doubt. However, we reckoned without the speed and the willingness to go after them of the little Cracker shortstop. He got the ball and threw Anderson out by a step. It was a great piece of fielding, and Moore was given a big hand when he came in to the bench. hand when he came in to the bench. Picking a hitting star for the contest is a little more difficult, but we feel that this palm, if it is a palm, should be awarded to Joe Guyon. His two triples, coming in the seventh and eighth innings, were of the variety known as opportune. His first clout raised the hopes of the fans who were beginning to look forward to another one of these late inning defeats that the Crackers have heretofore been famous for. Even after fore been famous for. Even after the seventh when the Crackers scored the seventh when the Crackers scored three runs the Crackers fans did not feel safe. They have seen too many three-run and larger leads go up in smoke, but in the eighth inning, when Guyon lammed another triple with two men on, the fans wondered just how badly the locals were going to lambast the Lookouts.

HOW THE CRACKERS SCORED THEIR RUNS.

The Crackers concentrated their efforts to three innings, the fourth, the seventh and eighth. In the fourth they scored without a hit. Wano, first they scored without a hit. Wano, first up, went out Bedgood to Anderson. Mayer fouled out to Wright. Bernsen walked. Dutch surprised the fans and himself by stealing second—a delayed steal. Klugman then popped a long single to right and by dint of clever baserunning he went to second after a slow-up that made Hauger throw home to catch Bernsen.

Star Pitcher on Giants' Staff Said to Have Tried To Sell Out Teammates

Douglas Has Been Hard Man To Manage And Has Been In Trouble Often-Landis Takes Action.

Douglas was placed on the permanent ineligible list of the Giants and Judge Landis, commissioner of organized baseball, who came here from Chicago to look into the matter, said this would effectually bar the shuffler from every team, in every league subscribing to the national agreement.

McGraw did not frankly charge Douglas with corruption, but said the Douglas with corruption, but said the giant southern hurler admitted authorship of a letter to a member of a rival team, offering to "go fishing" if this person could "produce the goods".

Text of Letter. "You know," the letter said, according to McGraw, "I can win the pennant for the Giants if I stay in the game. the game."

Douglas recently went absent without leave from the Giants when they were depending on him to keep the team in the fight but this apparently was just another of his periodical sorties in to the bright lights and not accomplished by any other inducements than the prospect of a good time. McGraw said that the other team and the individual player whom Douglas approached with his alleged proposal were absolutely innocent of any dishonorable act or emission. Douglas approached proposal were absolutely innocent of any dishonorable act or omission. Apparently McGraw received full co-operation of these parties in his investigation of the shuffler's actions. gation of the shuftler's actions.

McGraw seemed very hard hit by the realization of what Douglas had done, for it now develops that he had forgiven the shuffler's former leaves from training and hed he had forgiven the shuttler's former lapses from training and had restored to him every dollar of the fines which were assessed against him in the past. nome and an automobile with his savings amassed under this plan.

"The Giants are glad to get rid of Douglas," McGraw said, with his head bowed. "His erratic actions have given me many gray hairs but I could not have believed that he would do anything like this. Now we have proof in his handwriting and in the words of persons who overheard his telephone conversations.

"When the season opened he told me how grateful he was for my personal efforts on his behalf and a few weeks later he opened negotiations with a semi-professional team, offering to cuit we if there were ing to quit us if they could get him enough money. On our last western trip he simply walked out of the box in the eighth inning of a game in Cincinnati with the score tied. I was not with the team that day."

waived along.

Landis said the Giants had done the right thing and congratulated the manager on being rid of Shufflin Phil. He added that it would not be formal.

Phil Douglas, the Giants' famous pitcher, has been fired from organized baseball, charged with offering to betray his team, when he realized that the Giants were depending heavily upon his pitching to win this year's pennant.

Douglas confessed, according to John J. McGraw, manager of the Giants, when confronted with letters written over his signature and with transcripts of telephone conversations, which he had with other persons. He was stricken from the roster and payroll of the team and from the Giants' register at their hotel and McGraw even went to the extent of giving orders that he be not permitted to sign a check for another meal at the club's expense in the hotel dining room.

Douglas was placed on the permonent ineligible list of the Giants and Judge Landis, commissioner of organized and thempt of the tolub in organized ball. If Douglas does not contest the matter, however, McGraw's action will be adequate to bar him.

The firing of the big pitcher leaves the Giants in a bad plight as the members of the team had been counting on a few important victories from his arm in the final weeks of the season.

Douglas came up to the majors by way of the White Sox in 1912, emarched the majors by way of the White Sox in 1912, emarched the major have from Macon, Ga., in the South Atlantic league. Since that time he has been sent back to the minors three times and has served four other major league teams, the Reds, Dodg-ers, Cubs. and, finally the Giants in the final weeks of the season.

DON'T BE AFRAID OF YOUR AERIAL: IT PROTECTS YOU

It would seem that enough has been said for all time regarding the fire hazards of radio, but letters from the newer "fans" and would-be recruits, to the radio audience indicate that this thought is still uppermost in many

It can be stated categorically that there is, practically speaking, no such danger. Both theory and practice prove this. The record of fires due to radio is limited, in our knowledge, one, and that extremely doubtful; it was quite certainly, however, not caused by lightning, which is the chief cause of worry to the new-

The theory of why an aerial does not attract lightning, but actually creates a sort of immunity for the building on which it rests, is interestingly explained by Howard S. Pyle, writing in the current issue of Wireless Age. He points out that the function of a lightning rod is not, as was supposed until recently, to draw would be an impossible feat for a mere metallic rod in view of the enormalistic rod in view of the beautiful rod in view The real purpose of the red is to pro-vide a leakage path for the atmos-pheric electricity around a building, making the immediate vicinity of that building a less attractive path for the lightning to take. Consequently the aerial, made of copper or phosphor bronze, and therefore of far greater bronze, and therefore of far greater conductivity than a steel or iron lighting rod, serves the purpose of the atter in much more efficient fashion, provided the aerial is well constructed and properly grounded.

So put up your aerial intelligently and enjoy the radio program without fear. Instead of threatening you actually protects you. And, of course, if you use an inside aerial of any kind there is no danger from this isource whatsoever.

The UV-201 tubes may be used in this circuit, but the UV-200 tubes are not suitable, as hard tubes are necessary to withstand the high voltages. The Western Electric power tubes or the UV-202 tubes can be used to give greater amplification.

MANY RAIL BONDS

New York, August 16.—Cheaper money rates caused a flood of comprehensive buying of bonds on the prehensive buying of bonds on the New York stock exchange today, material advances being scored by a number of issues. Speculative rails gave the best demonstration as a group, but several new favorites came into the market, especially among the utilities. The covering then became less active, while the weekly report of the weather bureau was no more bullish than anticipated, and the market sagged off during the afternoon under realizing by recent buyers. There may have also have been some scattered southern selling on the late decline, but the afternoon market was comparatively merrow and responded comparatively parrow and responded to moderate orders either way. The census report showing domestic mill consumption of 458,548 bales for July against 410,142 last year attracted no special comment and was not consid-ered a factor in the day's market.

Cotton Letter.

New York, August 16.—The wave of buying which began under the influence of the cond strike settlement yesterday continued during today's session of the cotton market. Furthermore, the added influence of an unfavorable weekly weather report today contributed to additional buying, which explains the nigher quotations. The domestic consumption figures for July and June registering a sharp falling off. Demanifrom spinners is quiet, as they are willing to await further developments in the centre of the cotton market and improved demand for yarps and cloths. Cotton Seed Oil.

New York, August 16.—Cotton seed oil had a sharp advance today on a demand from all crop shorts, prompted by expectations of a bullish census report. Unfavorable weather news and the steadler showing of other markets also proved a factor in the advance. Final prices were off somewhat from top, but still 18 to 25 points higher for cid, and 7 to 9 polats pet higher for new crop months. Sales, 20,200 barreis. Tenders, 400 barrels, Prime crude S00 sales; prime summer yellow spot, $10.10; bid; September, closed, $10.07; December, $7.32; March, $7.90; all bid.

New York, August 16.—The only business reported in the raw sugar market was a sale of 15,000 bags Cubas from store at $5,25, darly paid, and more was available late in the day at the same price. Raw sugar futures were steady. After slight-eurly heaviness, the market rallied and clesed steady at unchanged prices to 3 points decline. September closed 3.6ic; December, 3.78c; March, 3.50c; May, 3.62c; all bid. Refined was quiet with no change f.60c to 7.10c in the list price, but of fine granulated were made by a re is low as 6.80c, less 2 per cent. Re

THREE MAYORALTY

Mayor Key Speaks.

Speaking before the Second Ward Improvement club at 358 Whitehall street, Mayor Key voiced his claim for the support of the people of Atlanta, declaring that under his term of office as mayor the city had "come to be the queen of the south." He said that the fifth district should be represented by a man, the prestige of one sented by a man, the prestige of this city sented by a man, the prestige of one who has served as mayor of this city and claimed that the incumbent has failed to properly represent the pe

Sims Claims Palice. Elmer Griffin, 18 years old, of 402 Peachtree street, employed until Friday in the proof rooms of The Constitution, left here Sunday morning at 4 o'clock on a motorcycle bound for Charlotte, N. C., and has not been heard from since. His mother fears that foul play has befallen her son. He carried a camping outfit, as he intended taking a camping trip with his uncle in North Carolina. Telegrams have been received from Charlotte asking if he has been heard of from this end of the line. Any one who knows of the whereabouts of the routh is requested to communi-Sims Claims Police.

laboring man, for organized labor, and I know what the laboring man has to contend with and what his problems are."

M. L. Duggan, candidate for state superintendent of schools, outlined a platform that included state-furnished books for the lower grades at least, and claimed that his experience would stand comparison with that of any man in Georgia for the place. "I have spent twenty-nine years in this service. I know the teachers and the school officials all over Georgia. Ask one of them who to vote for; they will tell you right," he said.

J. J. Brown, commissioner of agriculture, candidate for re-election, was the last speaker. "There is a lawyer running against me," he said. "Who ever heard of a farmer running for judge? There is just as much sense for me to run for judge as there is for a lawyer to run for commissioner of agriculture. I know the needs of the farmer; for \(\tau\) am one myself. There has never been a time when it was so essential for a farmer to hold the position I now hold."

the key position by virtue of his of-fice as majority leader. The Masa-chusetts senator, it is said, is op-posed to passing a bonus bill at this time. It was he who called a spe-cial meeting of republican leaders re-cently for the purpose of discussing the legislative program, at which it was agreed to postpone action on the bill until the next session. Later, for unknown reasons, it was announced that the bonus had been restored to its former position on the senate calendar and would be taken up immediately after the tariff bill had been Tariff Vote Saturday.

At the time it was the general opinion of members of the senate that the tariff would not be completed until after the November elections, which would act to serve the same purpose in regard to the bonus. Now, however, with 2 senate working under a unanimous consent agreement, the tariff is scheduled for a vote by Saturday, opening the way for the compensation measure.

Unless the six senators "step down off the fence" and throw their support to the ranks of the opposition, there is little doubt about the bonus passing. It is only a question of the pledges to furnish the 16 from the pledges to furnish the 26 from th

According to returning members of the house who have just spent several weeks on the bome grounds, much sentiment has developed against the treasur, raid. This sentiment has been found great enough to change many over from their former position.

And it is conceded that if the measure is sent back to the house after a presidential veto, the vote would not be near its former figure. Many members who voted for the bonus be-fore would vote against it now, it is claimed, if for no other reason, to uphold the president's stand.
